2. PRESENTATION

To innovate is to do things differently; creativity is necessary for innovation.

The work environment demands more and more professionals with creative skills that allow them to approach current challenges from different perspectives. New problems require new solutions. Starting from the premise that creativity is not a gift reserved for a few people but a capacity that can be exercised and enhanced, in this subject, we will try to awaken, stimulate, and provoke the creative side of the students, providing them with tools for the practice of different techniques.

Some of the most common and applicable creativity and innovation techniques will be discussed and worked on with the purpose of unconscious automation. This means that with practice, these techniques become second nature, and you can apply them without consciously thinking about it. That is, it is about activating creative thinking with spontaneity, and this serves for the rest of the subjects of the degree and, of course, for daily life.
