SUMMARY OF THE CURRICULUM VITAE

Prior to my engagement at the Universidad Europea, I spent nearly 13 years working as lecturer and researcher in the United Kingdom, where I also gained my Doctorate in 2013. I taught various courses on undergraduate and postgraduate tourism and event management programmes at Bournemouth University, Anglia Ruskin University in Cambridge, and Edinburgh Napier University in Scotland, as well as delivering commercial courses in Asia (Hong Kong, Singapore). I acted as External Examiner contributing to the quality of curriculum design and management at a number of UK institutions, and actively participated in event management education development as an Executive Committee member of the Association for Events Management Education.

Past professional roles in the tourism, events and hospitality sectors helped me develop a range of practical skills, as well as knowledge of destination marketing, and marketing and management of events. More recently I have been focusing on developing my pedagogical capabilities, having gained Postgraduate Certificates in Blended and Online Education, as well as in Teaching and Learning for Higher Education.

I have been an active researcher and have published in a number of prestigious journals, as well as writing book chapters and presenting at UK-based and international academic conferences. My research interests are in value and experience co-creation within customer-dominant logic; transformative experiences; social practice theory; and, innovative service research and marketing approaches and methodologies within tourism, hospitality and events. I have previously supervised PhD theses in the UK, and I regularly serve on conference scientific committees and review articles in a number of high-quality academic journals. I am currently involved in a number of research projects and publications with collaborators based in the UK, Spain, Austria, Poland, and India.

FREE SUMMARY OF THE CURRICULUM VITAE

At the academic level, María holds a Diploma in Tourism, a degree in Advertising and Public Relations, and a postgraduate degree in Tourism Business Management from the Universitat Jaume I in Castellón. Inspired by the pandemic, she focused her doctoral thesis on studying the impact of COVID-19 on the incentive travel sector. She successfully defended her thesis, titled "Incidence and Impact of COVID-19 on the Professional Incentive Travel Sector," in March 2024 at the Universitat Jaume I, receiving a Cum Laude distinction.

Since November 2023, María has served as the Director of the Master's Program in Hotel Management and Direction at the European University of Valencia. Additionally, she is a member of both the scientific committee and the organizing committee for the ATLAS Congress on Business Tourism, which will be held in Valencia in November 2024.

In her professional career, María has extensive experience as a Senior Project Manager and Head of the Liberty International DMC office in Valencia. With more than 15 years of experience in managing various types of MICE (Meetings, Incentives, Conferences, and Exhibitions) events in Spain, the UK, Greece, and the Dominican Republic, she has a well-established reputation in the industry.

María also holds the position of Director of Education at the MPI Iberian Chapter. This chapter unites event professionals from Spain and Portugal, aiming to unify, train, and strengthen the sector.

In addition to her managerial roles, María is actively involved in academia. She works as:

- An online teacher in the Master's Program in Event Management at Ostelea.
- A temporary professor at the Mediterranean Institute of Protocol Studies.
- A lecturer at the European University of Valencia.
